Thomas Cooper (1517?-1594) had a successful career in the church which may have been due, in part, to his work as a lexicographer. Anthony à Wood in describing the Thesaurus says:

> This is commonly called Cooper's Dictionary, which was so much esteemed by Q. Elizabeth, that ever after she endeavoured to promote the Author as high in the Church as she could.
> (Athenæ Oxonienses, 1691)

Despite his lowly origins (his father was a tailor) he was educated at Magdalen College, Oxford, where he received his B.A. and M.A. From 1549 to 1568 he was Master of Magdalen College School, and in 1567 he was dean of Christ Church and vice-chancellor from 1567 to 1570. He was appointed to the deanery of Gloucester in 1569, became bishop of Lincoln in 1570, and was bishop of Winchester from 1584 to his death.

His lexicographical work began with the 1548 revision of Sir Thoms Elyot's Bibliotheca Eliotæ, originally published in 1538. The Thesaurus linguæ Romanæ et Britannicæ first appeared in 1565 and was reprinted in 1573, 1578, 1584 (twice), and 1587, but there are no essential differences between these editions.

Cooper's massive achievement was immediately recognised and the Thesaurus became a standard reference work. Nevertheless there was also a good deal of hostile criticism, the main burden of which accused Cooper of plagiarising other dictionaries. DeWitt T. Starnes has shown this criticism to be biased and unfair since Cooper acknowledges most of his sources, which were already recognised as the best authorities, and because the practice of wholesale borrowing without acknowledgement, especially from works of reference, was quite common at this time. Furthermore one of Cooper's main sources was his own extensive revision of the Bibliotheca Eliotæ.

> Starnes summarises Cooper's method as follows:
> . . . in the compilation of his Thesaurus linguæ Romanæ et Britannicæ (1565), Thomas Cooper used as a model and a main source Robert Stephanus' Dictionarium Latino-Gallicum (1552), the Latin part of which is an abridgment of the same compiler's Thesaurus linguæ Latinæ. Into the frame-work of this pattern Cooper introduced considerable matter which he, as reviser, had thrice employed in augmentation of Elyot's Bibliotheca; he also drew a number of definitions and illustrations from the German of Johannes Frisius' Dictionarium Latino-Germanicum (1556). In addition to these sources, Cooper translated a large number of Latin phrases, which, though in the text of Stephanus' Latin-French dictionary, had there no vernacular translation.
> (Renaissance Dictionaries, 1954)

Cooper also included a separate list of proper names, "Dictionarium historicum et poeticum propria locorum et personarum vocabula breviter complectens", mainly extracted from the text of the Bibliotheca Eliotæ. It had been his intention to include this list in his 1559 edition of the Bibliotheca, but ill health had prevented him from completing the task.

The Thesaurus was the most technically complex dictionary compiled at this time and although isolated features had been used in other dictionaries none had used them all collectively. Its great importance still lies in its place in English lexicography and in the evidence provided in the definitions for Elizabethan English usage.

Cooper's singleness of purpose in completing the work is astonishing for, besides the sheer size of the undertaking and his ill health, he had to contend with an unfaithful and spiteful wife. As John Aubrey records:

> Dr. Edw. Davenant told me that the learned man had a shrew to his wife, who was irreconcileably angrie with him for sitting-up late at night compileing his Dictionarie. When he had halfe-donne it, she had the opportunitie to gett into his studie, tooke all his paines out in her lap, and threw it into the fire, and burnt it. Well, for all that, the good man had so great a zeale for the advancement of learning, that he began it again, and went through with it to that Perfection that he hath left it to us a most useful Worke.
> (Brief Lives, 1662)

C. S. Lewis' dictum that the Elizabethans did nothing by halves could not be more apt.

AD CLARISSIMVM VIRVM Robertum Dudleium, Leiceſtriæ Comitem, Regiæ maieſtati a conſiliis, & Oxonienſis Academiæ Cancellarium, Thomæ Cooperi, de Theſauri dedicatione, epiſtola.

CVM ſuperioribus annis (illuſtriſſime vir) in ſubſidium ſtudioſæ iuuẽtutis Eliota Dictionarium Latinoanglicum maximis laboribus conficeret: mihi viſus eſt vir doctus & prudens mente cogitatione q; proſpexiſſe, in quantas anguſtias ętate ſubſequente res literaria prolapſura videretur. Poſtquam enim noſtra memoria, propter graues temporum & religionis mutationes, antiſtites Eccleſiæ verbiq; miniſtri, non in contemptum modò hominum, ſed in periculum etiam ſalutis & fortunarum trahi cæperunt: mirũ profectò quam ex eo tempore quotidie magis deiecta ſit iuuentutis ſpes et induſtria, quam vbiq; contemptæ iacuerint artes & diſciplinæ. Nam cum illud vitæ genus, cuius antea dignitas et amplitudo quaſi prẽmium ſtudioſorum laboribus propoſitum fuit, iam vel, quod multi putant, coniunctam habeat ignominiam, vel, quod impii ſperant. imminentem calamitatem: et parentes, ſuorum proſpicientes commodis, alia vitæ inſtituta liberis prẽſcribunt: et ipſi iuuenes, vulgi potius exiſtimationem quam rerũ dignitatem ſequentes, ad quiduis ſunt promptiores, quam ad diuturnas ſtudiorum moleſtias ſine certo fructu perferendas. Hinc itaq; fit, quod à præclaris ingeniis præmaturè deſtituantur Academiæ et ſcholæ publicæ, multoſq; iuuenes habeant liberaliter ſanè inſtitutos educatione doctrinaq; puerili, ſed paucos admodum, qui cognitionis et ſcientiæ cupidi, in literas illas interiores et reconditas altius penetrare ſtudeant: niſi qui fortè ad medicinæ cognitionem, aut iuriſprudentiam paulo maiori impetu ferantur. Reliqui, vel abiectis ſtudiis ad aulicam vitam confugiunt, vel ad regni inſtituta ediſcenda ſe conferunt, vel ad alias ætatis degendæ rationes deſciſcunt, ex quibus ampliores credunt vtilitates ſibi profecturas. Quamobrem meritò mihi videntur conqueri Chriſtianæ religionis præſides et viri doctiſſimi, quibus eiuſdem hodie tradita eſt adminiſtratio, cum incredibili veritatis Euangelicæ incommodo magnam eſſe in pleriſq; locis eccleſiarũ deſtitutionem, ſummamq; penuriam eorum, qui diuini fœderis præconium ſuſcipiant, qui Eccleſiaſtica munia ſubeant, qui reliquas literatæ pietatis functiones exerceant. Cum enim cæteras reipublicæ partes capeſcentibus certi honores magnaq; præmia proponãtur Eccleſiarum verò rectoribus & literarum magiſtris ad contemptum maior q̃ ad laudem locus relictus ſit: non mirum ſi multi reperiantur, qui gloriam & dignitatem, pauci qui coniunctam cum ignominia virtutem et doctrinam perſequantur. Sed imprudenter à me & intempeſtiuè hæc illata videtur querela, cum omnium iam ſermone peruulgatum ſit, tuo maximè conſilio, & clariſſimi viri Sicilli maieſtatem Regiam iamdudum iniiſſe rationem, quemadmodum non artes ſolum iniuria temporis labãtes in priſtinam reſtituantur dignitatem, ſed etiam vt iuuentus ignauia langueſcens gloriæ ſtimulis erecta magis conſtanter perferat graues ſtudiorum labores. Hanc opinionem mentibus hominum infixit anno ſuperiore Cantabrigienſis profectio: cũ Regia maieſtas in ipſis quaſi Muſarũ delubris, non ſolũ præſentia ſua declarauit honeſtiſſimarum artium cultores ſibi et curæ fuiſſe & delectationi, ſed etiam ſplendida & illuſtri oratione ſtudioſorum animos ad ſingularem quandam ſpem ampliſſimorum virtutis & induſtriæ præmiorum concitabat. Verè quidem illa principis officio fungitur & illuſtris et immortali prædi-tatione dignæ. Postquã enim strepitus armorum et bellorum tumultus prudentissimis consiliis sedauit, ad pacis rationes componendas incumbit: vt linguarum peritia vigeat, vt humanitatis disciplinæ floreant, vt laudabilium artium doctrina in pretio sit, summo studio contendit. Qua in re licet ipsius præcipuè virtus & prudentia eluceat, vestra tamen non exigua laus est, qui in eiusdem societatem cõsilii venistis. Vestris enim monitis, vestris hortatibus, et excitata est et cõfirmata Regiæ Celsitudinis industria. Quamobrem diuino certè beneficio factum puto, vt his temporibus Academiæ nostrates, præclaræ Musarum sedes, vos inprimis duos habeant patronos: quos omnes vident, & singulari quadam naturæ bonitate, & incredibili Reipublicæ studio liberalium disciplinarum suscepisse defensionem & propagationem. Satis enim intelligit vestra prudentia, nihil esse in natura rerum, quod tam fusa in omnes partes habeat commoda, quam humanitas atque doctrina. Nam præclara hæc et eximia communiũ literarum est vtilitas, quod earũ conformatio, si vel ad mediocres naturas accesserit, incredibilem vim prudentiæ, consilii, dignitatis, ad omnes Reipublicæ partes cõstituendas profert. Quis enim non videt, quantum possit humanitatis et disciplinæ institutio, in vero numinis cultu promouendo, in religione confirmanda, in moribus erudiendis, in obeundis legationibus, in exponendis Principis Senatúsue mandatis, in suasione aut dissuasione legum, consiliorum tractatione, causis publicis, iudiciis, cæterisq; rebus omnibus, quibus administratio Reipublicæ cõtinetur? Labantibus igitur literarũ studiis, et maximę reipublicæ vtilitates simul cõcidunt. Pro cognitione et scientia, turpissima rerum omnium ignoratio: pro sincero dei cultu, anilis superstitio: pro dicendi facultate, stupida infantia: pro consilii copia et vbertate, mentis et iudicii inopia: pro exculta morum elegantia, agrestis et inamœna rusticitas: pro mansuetudine et humanitate, barbara quædam feritas in vitam hominum inuadit. Quamobrem (vir præclarissime) quod liberalissimarum artium te patronum et defensorem præbeas, quod ad eorum consilia te adiunxeris, qui de suscitãda literarum dignitate cogitant, et Reipublicæ maximam cõcilias vtilitatem, et immortalem tibi laudem nominisq; prædicationem. Huius enim facti grata erit in omnem posteritatem recordatio. Præclara quidẽ semper habita sunt ista in splendidis et illustribus viris, vt sua virtute et industria iuris et legum æquabilitatem seruent, ciues in officio contineant, seditiosos pacis perturbatores reprimant, ab externis bellis patriam defendant: sed vulgares hæ nobilium virorum laudes sunt, et cum multis communes. Ista verò eximia sunt et singularia, summo studio curare, vt procul à regni finibus exterminetur infantia: vt longius amandetur fœda rerum ignoratio: vt suum locum virtus et ingenii gloria consequatur: vt, qui studiis et artibus honos debetur, studiis et artibus honos deferatur. Verùm vt pauci sunt, qui harum rerum gloriam expetunt: ita qui diuinitus excitati in eam rem incumbunt, ab omnibus maiori et honore, et admiratione digni existimantur. Sed hæc cura non claros modò viros, et eos qui cum dignitate sunt in Republica debet attingere, sed omnes præterea bonos ciues, et inprimis eos, qui literarum causa cupiunt. Quorum è numero cũ ego me profitear esse: cum officio meo coniunctum arbitror, vt aliquid in communem studiosorum fructum proferã. Omnes itaq; ingenii mei facultates, cuiusquemodi sunt, in hunc vtriusq; linguæ Thesaurum contuli: vt, qui in re literaria tenuiores sunt, hinc petant, quo suam possint inopiam sustentare, donec per se maiores orationis diuitias sibi comparent. Cæteras artes et scientias alii suo tempore promouebunt, ego pro virili mea parte studui, vt hac ratione iuuenibus nostris aliquantò facilior esset aditus ad Latinæ linguæ cognitionem atq; facultatem. Hic enim non solum cuiusq; vocabuli vernacuvernaculam interpretationem variam et copiosam reperient: sed etiam ex amplissimo Roberti Stephani Thesauro commodissimè congestas locutionum formulas, quibus eiusdem apud probatos authores vsus, quantúmuis multiplex, indicatur. Ex eisdem etiam subscriptis locutionum exemplis intelligant, cuiusmodi in illustribus scriptoribus adiuncta sint nominibus epitheta, quæ verbis eleganter aduerbia connectantur, quæ interdum antitheta et contraria, quæ nomina quibus verbis, quæ item verba quibus nominibus aptè cohęreant. Genera verborum et nominum, inflectionem, accentum, deriuationem, nusq̃ pènè prætermisi: vt illorum etiam consulerem industriæ, quibus deest viuæ vocis institutio. Ascripta sunt vbiq; authorum nomina: vt non obscurum esse possit, quid cuiq; debeatur. Hinc etiam vel exiguo negotio depromant sibi non contemnendum apparatum verborum et locutionum, siue de re aliqua dicendum sit, siue scribendum. Accedunt et ista non exigua commoda: quod hic Latini sermonis elegantiam et concinnitatem obseruent, quod eiusdem cum nostro idiomate consensionem intelligant, quod in suis scriptis ad optimorũ authorũ imitationẽ se facilius componant. Quamobrem hic vnus liber omnia videtur adferre subsidia & adiumenta, quibus iuuenes instructi laudabilem orationis facultatem consequantur. Hoc quicquid est laboris et industriæ, quod in Thesauro nostro congerendo locaui, tibi inprimis (vir ornatissime) dicandum arbitror. Oxonienses enim, si quid in literis hoc tempore moliuntur operosius, si quid in lucem proferendum statuunt, id censent tuæ Dignitati tum iure, tum merito deberi. Si enim qui fundum studiosè colendum, diligenter conserendum, eleganter exornandum curat, eiusdem prouentus iure sibi vendicat: æquum etiam videri debet, vt quos studiorum fructus Oxonienſis Academia profert, eos tibi solus auferas, qui tam libenter eam & studio foues, & consilio regis, & authoritate defendis. Cum igitur ego semper alumnus huius scholæ fuerim: non video quemadmodum sine iusta ingratitudinis reprehensione possim non tibi labores meos consecrare. Quod tamen non ea spe facio, vt mea dicatione ad tuas quicquam laudes accedat. Quid enim ad solis splendorem lucernæ lichnioliue lumen, aut ad immensam maris magnitudinem quid potest adferre stilla muriæ? Ad eum vero laudum tuarum cumulum, quem præclarissimarum virtutum ornamentis tibi comparasti, multo minus hac inscriptione additur. Me tamen nominis tui splendore ad huius lucubrationis obscuritatem illustrandam abuti, non grauiter, vt spero, patiere. Nam & ea es humanitate, vt oblata munuscula non tam suo pondere, quàm offerentium voluntate metiaris: & ea grauitate atq; constantia, vt quarum modo literarum tutelam susceperis, earum iam nolis fructus quantumuis exiguos aspernari. Hunc itaq; Thesaurum literarium tibi exhibeo testem & animi in te mei, & omniũ tuorum Oxonienſium voluntatis. Quem si pro solita benignitate tua in bonam acceperis partem, diuitiarum certè tuarum cumulo non multum, humanitatis commendationi plurimum accesserit.

(*) Vale.

ANNOTATIONES QVIBVS ſtudioſi lectores admonentur de ratione & ordine iſtius libri, ne fortè in quærendis dictionibus vel errent vel hæſitent.

ORdinem alphabeticum diligenter in omnibus ſeruaui, præterq̃ in illis vocabulis quæ ab alijs deducuntur. Nam, quæ Grammatici vocant deriuatiua, reieci ad ſuos fontes, vnde promanant et profluunt. Vt iſtæ dictiones Eſurio, Eſuriens, Eſuries, Eſuritio, &c. non habentur in alphabetica ſerie, ſed poſt verbum Edo, à quo deriuantur. Quam rationem ideo putaui vtiliorem fore, quod facile iuuenis cognoſcat, vtrum dictio, de qua dubitatur, primogenia ſit, an deductitia: & ſi deductitia, à quo tandem trahatur, & quos habeat generis conſortes. Suis tamen locis in alphabetico ordine reperies, vbi iſta, poſt ſuas origines, quęrenda ſint.

Vernaculas phraſium & locutionum interpretationes de induſtria plurimis in locis inuenies mancas & imperfectas. Vt in verbo Colligo, iſtæ locutioni, Colligare impetum furentis, adieci interpretationis cauſa tantummodo, to repreſſe, &c. reliquam partem ſententiæ reliqui induſtriæ lectoris. Item, in Circulus, iſta ſententia, Circulos ſuos orbesq́, conficiunt celeritate mirabili ſtellæ, hanc imperfectam habet adiunctam expoſitionem: They courſes with marueilous, &c. Vbi vides eius duntaxat partis expoſitionem, quæ difficillima ſit, & quæ pertineat ad vocabulum, cuius vſus eo loco deſcribitur: cętera conſulto prętermiſi. Hanc rationem licet multis fortaſſe minus probatam, me tamen vel inuitum perſequi coegit ſtudium breuitatis: quam licet & hac in re, & alijs quibuſcunque potui modis ſecutus ſum, vides tamen plus iuſto voluminis magnitudinem creuiſſe.

Non defuturos ſtio, qui vernaculam interpretationem reprehendant, tanq̃ multis in locis parum commodè latinis reſpondentem. Sed ab æquis lectoribus vehementer contendo, vt iudicium ſuum differant, donec in eum locum inciderint, vnde phraſes ipſæ deſumptæ ſunt. In maternum enim ſermonem transfudi, non eo quidem ſenſu, quem prima fronte præ ſe ferre videntur Latina: ſed iuxta mentem & ſentętiam authoris, quem citaui. Exempli cauſa, in Viuus ſic legent, Viui peruenimus illuc. Virg. Statim expectabunt hanc interpretationem, We came thyther aliue. Sed ego ſenſum authoris ſecutus, ſic verti: We haue liued to ſee that. Item in Tarditas, Curſu corrigere tarditatem, hunc in modum interpretatus ſum: With more ſpæde to make amendes for his ſlowneſſe before time. At multi credent magis appoſitè me vertiſſe, ſi dixiſſem, To amende his ſlowneſſe wyth running. Quæ interpretatio longè diſcrepaſſet ab authoris ſententia. Hæc pauca ſatis fuerit exempli cauſa demonſtraſſe: cum tamen alia plurima ſint eiuſdem generis.

Omnis dictio, quæ ex claſsicis et probatis authoribus depromitur, habet authoris nomen aſcriptum. Quod ſi qua non habuerit, eam ſcito vel Græcam eſſe, nec dum in ſatis probatum vſum Latini ſermonis pertractam: vel eiuſmodi Latinam, quæ in laudatis ſcriptoribus non reperiatur.

Locutionum formulæ poſt vnumquodque vocabulum non temerè et confuſè, ſed alphabetica ſerie commodiſsimè congeſtæ ſunt, vt minori negotio ſe quęrentibus offerant.

Vbicunque repereris hanc notam aſcriptam .¶. ibi ſcito vel ſignificationem, vel vſum dictionis nonnihil diſcrepare ab eo, quod proximè ſuperius præceſſerat.
